How translations work

There are three places in frontend code that relate to translation/i18n. They are

1. The initial script `locale.ts`. This sets up i18next and react-i18next.
2. The React Root Decorator which wraps all of our root components. This provides the connection between the i18next "backend" (still on the client side) and the microfrontend it wraps.
3. The microfrontend, which uses the 't' function to produce rendered content.
